WELCOME TO METRO.US!

ERIN TIERNAN, WEB REPORTER

Good morning! White supremacists may have known what the rest of us didn't — even before Trump's Trump Tower press conference that caused mass confusion, they were convinced the president had not denounced them. Maybe they had a Magic 8 ball.

Read about more fallout from the press conference fiasco at metro.us/the-big-stories.

ORGANIZERS OF VA. RALLY, DRIVER SUED FOR $3M

1 Two people who say they were injured in a far-right rally in Charlottesville, Virginia, sued the man charged with killing a woman by driving his car through the crowd as well as the event's organizers on Tuesday for $3 million. Tadrint Washington and Micah Washington said in papers filed in Charlottesville circuit court that they had been among the people hurt when James Alex Fields drove his car into a crowd of counter-protesters, killing one. They had been driving home and their car was struck by Fields car, and some of his pedestrian victims were also hurled onto their vehicle, the lawsuit said. The lawsuit names Fields, "Unite the Right" rally organizer Jason Kessler and about two dozen alt-right leaders and organizations as defendants.

NORTH KOREA DELAYS GUAM MISSILE FIRING

2 North Korean leader Kim Jong Un has delayed a decision on firing missiles toward Guam while he waits to see what the United States does, the North's state media reported as the United States said any dialogue was up to Kim. The U.S. and South Korea have prepared for more joint military drills, which has infuriated the North, and experts warned it could still go ahead with a provocative plan. Kim inspected the command of the North's army on Monday, examining a plan to fire four missiles aimed at landing near the U.S. Pacific territory of Guam, the official KCNA news agency reported. "He said that if the Yankees persist in their extremely dangerous reckless actions on the Korean peninsula and in its vicinity, testing the self-restraint of the DPRK, the latter will make an important decision as it already declared," KCNA said.

5 THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW

TRUMP SAYS BOTH LEFT- AND RIGHT-WING GROUPS TO BLAME

3 President Donald Trump on Tuesday said both sides were to blame in the clashes in Virginia over the weekend, adding that protesters on the political left violently attacked white nationalists rallying against a decision to remove a Confederate statue. Trump had been sharply criticized for his initial comments blaming "many sides" for the violence in Charlottesville, but on Monday had explicitly condemned right-wing racist elements. "They came at each other with clubs ... it was a horrible thing to watch," Trump told reporters in response to questions in the lobby of Trump Tower, before adding that left-wing protesters "came violently attacking the other group."

AMERICANS' DEBT LEVEL NOTCHES A NEW HIGH

4 Americans' debt level notched another record high in the second quarter, after having earlier in the year surpassed its pre-crisis peak, on the back of modest rises in mortgage, auto and credit card debt, where delinquencies jumped. Total U.S. household debt was $12.84 trillion in the three months to June, up $552 billion from a year ago, according to a Federal Reserve Bank of New York report. The proportion of overall debt that was delinquent, at 4.8 percent, was on par with the previous quarter. However a red flag was raised over the transitions of credit card balances into delinquency, which the New York Fed said "ticked up notably." Loosening lending standards have allowed borrowers with lower credit scores to access credit cards, Andrew Haughwout, an in-house economist, said in the report.

AMAZON ADDS 'INSTANT PICKUP' IN US

5 Amazon.com Inc. is rolling out U.S. pickup points where shoppers can retrieve items immediately after ordering them, shortening delivery times from hours to minutes in its latest move into brick-and-mortar retail. The world's largest online retailer has launched "Instant Pickup" points around five college campuses, such as the University of California at Berkeley, it said on Tuesday. Amazon has plans to add the program to more sites by the end of the year. Shoppers on Amazon's mobile app can select from several hundred fast-selling items at each location, from snacks and drinks to phone chargers. Amazon employees in a back room then load orders into lockers within two minutes, and customers receive bar codes to access them. Its Instant Pickup program targets impulse buys.

Boston Holocaust Memorial vandalized again

A 17-year-old is charged with destruction of property after witnesses reported seeing him throw a rock at the glass memorial.

@kristindakota
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

A teenage boy has been charged with willful and malicious destruction of property after allegedly vandalizing Boston's New England Holocaust Memorial in the second such incident this summer.

Boston police responded to a call concerning vandalism at the memorial around 6:30 p.m. Monday. The 17-year-old male from Malden had been stopped by two bystanders after they witnessed him throwing a rock at the memorial, officials said. One of the lower panels was shattered, scattering glass over the ground.

Officials are not releasing the name of the 17-year-old involved with this incident as he is a juvenile. He was arraigned in Boston Juvenile Court on Tuesday, according to the Suffolk County District Attorney's office, and released on personal recognizance.

He was ordered to stay away from the New England Holocaust Memorial and to comply with mental health treatment.

The memorial contains six towers, representative of the 6 million Jews who died during the Holocaust, the six years of the Final Solution and the six main death camps where the majority of European Jews were murdered.

Each tower contains 22 panes of glass, for a total of 132 panes, that are etched with the numbers that were tattooed on the arms of those who endured and perished in Nazi death camps.

The memorial is maintained by Combined Jewish Philanthropies and the Boston Jewish Community Relations Council. Together, the organizations released a statement saying that they are "appalled and saddened" that the memorial was vandalized for the second time in less than two months.

The vandalism also followed a white supremacist rally this past weekend that turned violent in Charlottesville, Virginia, resulting in one death and dozens injured.

"The images of Nazis marching in the streets of America over the weekend in Charlottesville and now shattered glass once again at this sacred space in Boston are an affront to our Jewish community and to all those who stand up against bigotry, hatred and anti-Semitism," the Jewish organizations said in their statement.

"We thank the Boston Police and the Public Works Department for their rapid response and for their continuing support during this difficult time," it continued. "We will remain resilient and will have a timeline for rebuilding the memorial once we have assessed the damage."

In July, the memorial was rebuilt and re-dedicated after a 21-year-old Roxbury man threw a rock at one tower and shattered a glass pane. That man, James E. Isaac, pleaded not guilty to vandalism; his attorneys said he had a history of mental illness.

BOSTON VIGIL

Vigil planned at Holocaust Memorial following vandalism

After news that the New England Holocaust Memorial was vandalized for the second time this summer, a group of young Jews and allies have planned a vigil at the downtown Boston site.

IfNotNow Boston bills itself as a movement to end the American Jewish community's support for the occupation of Israel and Palestine, instead turning it into a push for "freedom and dignity for all people," explained Ally Little, a 26-year-old member.

IfNotNow planned the vigil for Tuesday night, Little said, to show immediate action following the vandalism.

"This is a really urgent moment for us to act as Jews, and we know that we can't wait for someone else to speak for us," she said. "As young Jews, we have to say that we are the ones to take action against anti-Semitism, against white supremacy, and we have to do that now."

About 200 people said that they will attend the vigil, according to the Facebook event page, with nearly 1,000 more people interested in the event.

Though there has been no official comment from the vandal or law enforcement about the motivation behind the shattering of one of the memorial's glass panes, the connection to the recent white supremacist events in Charlottesville, Virginia, is unavoidable to the Jewish community.

"I felt my stomach drop," Little said of when she first heard that the memorial had been damaged, "but at the same time, I wasn't surprised. It's not an accident that this type of anti-Semitic violence would take place the same week as the white supremacist violence in Charlottesville." KRISTIN TOUSSAINT

■ 48-HOUR DISTRIBUTION: These seldom seen uncut sheets of new $2 bills are being moved from the private vaults of the Lincoln Treasury for immediate distribution to Boston area residents. Residents who beat the 48-hour order deadline to get the vault stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios for just thirty-eight dollars per portfolio are getting the valuable uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills for just face value. That's a real steal because only those residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List are getting the Vault Stacks full of real money just by calling 1-800-731-4576 Dept. UNC309 to beat the 48-hour deadline.

Boston area zip codes turn up cash for residents

Valuable Gov't issued uncut sheets of money are actually being handed over to the first Boston area callers who find their zip code on the distribution list and beat the 48-hour order deadline to get Vault Stacks full of real money

■ VALUABLE: Pictured to the left are the Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios, each loaded with a valuable uncut sheet of never circulated $2 bills. It's impossible to predict how much the bills will be worth in the future. That's why smart collectors are snatching up all the valuable uncut sheets of Gov't issued money they can get their hands on, so you better believe at just thirty-eight dollars and shipping each bankers portfolio is a real steal since the first Boston area callers who beat the 48-hour deadline are getting the valuable U.S. Gov't issued uncut sheet of money for just face value.

MASSACHUSETTS - Boston area residents who find their zip code on the Distribution List will feel like they just won the lottery.

That's because for the next 48 hours, uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills are being released by the Lincoln Treasury not to banks, not to dealers and not just to the rich and famous, but directly to Boston area residents who beat the order deadline.

The only thing residents need to do is look for their zip code on the Distribution List printed in today's publication. If their zip code appears on the list, they need to immediately call the Distribution Hotline before the 48-hour order deadline ends to get the Vault Stack containing three protective bankers portfolios each loaded with its own uncut sheet of never circulated $2 bills. But only those residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List can even get the Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios full of real money.

"The money is being released until our last remaining uncut sheets of $2 bills are completely gone," said Timothy J. Shissler, Executive Director of Vault Operations at the private Lincoln Treasury.

"That's why we've set up a Toll Free Distribution Hotline to make sure residents get them now," he said.

"This announcement is being so widely advertised because everything in our vault may soon be gone. So residents who want to get the uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills had better hurry and call right now," Shissler said.

Those who get in on this now will be the really smart ones. Just think what they could be worth someday.

"Currency values always fluctuate, and there are never any guarantees. But at just thirty-eight dollars the bankers portfolio is a real steal since the first Boston area callers who beat the 48-hour deadline are getting the valuable U.S. Gov't issued uncut sheet of money for just face value," Shissler said.

"You would expect to only see uncut money sheets on display in the Oval Office or under guard at the Smithsonian," he said.

"In fact, they are so seldom seen, banks don't even have them. That's why I've issued a directive to release a limited number of never circulated uncut sheets of $2 bills from our private vault reserve to residents of the Boston area. Residents whose zip code is not on the Distribution List can't have our Vault Stacks loaded with these uncut sheets of $2 bills," Shissler said.

"These uncut sheets of Gov't issued $2 bills will be highly sought after and are extremely popular to hand out as gifts for friends and family," he said.

Most people have never even seen one of these full uncut sheets of four never circulated bills.

"We're bracing for all the calls. With just hours left, we're doing our best to make sure Boston area residents get through. But, it is important that residents find their zip code on the Distribution List and call the Toll Free Hotline right away to beat the deadline. Because when our release is over, it's over," he said.

"We're allowing residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List to claim as many as 10 Vault Stacks. But, since you can't get these Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios full of U.S. Gov't issued uncut sheets of money at banks, credit unions or even the Federal Reserve the limits will be strictly enforced," Shissler said.

"So, residents who want these Gov't issued uncut sheets of real money need to call right now. If lines are busy keep trying, we promise to answer all calls," Shissler said. ■

■ FULL UNCUT SHEETS: Above is one of the valuable uncut sheets of four never circulated $2 bills that are actually being released to Boston area residents. These crisp seldom seen uncut sheets of real money are being released on a first come, first served basis. That's why Boston area residents whose zip code appears on the Distribution List need to immediately call 1-800-731-4576 to get the Vault Stacks containing three protective bankers portfolios full of real money since they're only being released by the Lincoln Treasury through this offer for the next 48 hours.

How to get the money

The Toll Free Distribution Hotline opens at 8:30am today for Boston area residents only. The Lincoln Treasury has authorized the release of uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills to residents who beat the 48-hour deadline. If lines are busy, keep trying all calls will be answered. If you miss the deadline you'll be turned away from this offer and forced to wait for future announcements in this publication or others, if any.

The only thing readers need to do is find their zip code on the Distribution List below and be one of the first residents who call and beat the order deadline to get the Vault Stack containing three protective bankers portfolios, for just $38 per portfolio and shipping. Everyone who does is instantly being awarded the valuable uncut sheets of never circulated $2 bills for just face value. There is a strict limit of 10 Vault Stacks per household. To get yours call the Toll Free Hotline number below.

Former GE exec named as head of MBTA

The transit authority announced its new general manager Tuesday.

@kristindakota
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

A former General Electric executive has been named the general manager of the MBTA.

Luis Ramirez, 50, has been tapped to lead the transit authority after a three-decade career in the business world, the MBTA announced Tuesday.

Ramirez on Sept. 12 will officially replace Steve Poftak, who has been serving as the interim general manager since June after Brian Shortsleeve left the role.

Though Ramirez does not have a background in public transit, the MBTA said that throughout his career, he has worked with a variety of domestic and international stakeholders, from government entities to unionized workforces.

At GE, Ramirez worked in various roles for 12 years, ending his career there as president and CEO of the company's Energy Industrial Solutions division. He then worked at the Texas-based Global Power Equipment Group before founding his own business consultant firm in 2015.

"From day one, we were looking for a candidate with a solid track record of leading large and complex organizations through transformation and change," said Transportation Secretary Stephanie Pollack in a statement. "His unique personal background, deep exposure to a range of challenges and constituencies, and proven leadership skills make Luis the right person to lead the MBTA as it continues to become the world-class transit agency our riders expect and deserve."

The MBTA has (another) new general manager. WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

The MBTA has seen multiple changes in leadership since the winter of 2015, which wreaked havoc on eastern Massachusetts' public transit systems. Following that winter, acting General Manager Beverly Scott resigned.

From there, Frank DePaola stepped up to lead the MBTA but then announced his retirement in May 2016 amidst a battle with cancer. Brian Shortsleeve followed DePaola before suddenly departing this past July.

Ramirez is now the fifth person to take on the general manager position during Gov. Charlie Baker's tenure.

"As we continue to invest in and reform the MBTA, it is critical to have an experienced individual with turnaround experience at the helm working to improve service for riders," Gov. Baker said in a statement. "Luis has a proven skill set that I am sure will serve him well as he joins the team working toward meaningful reforms for commuters and taxpayers."

Dana-Farber/Brigham and Women's Cancer Center Ranked the Best in the Region for Cancer

BEST HOSPITALS U.S.News & WORLD REPORT NATIONAL CANCER 2017-18

The annual Best Hospitals rankings, now in their 28th year, are part of U.S. News' patient portal, designed to help patients make informed decisions about where to receive care for life-threatening conditions or for common elective procedures.

Dana-Farber/Brigham and Women's Cancer Center is a collaboration of Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Brigham and Women's Hospital, dedicated to providing comprehensive and specialized care for adults with cancer and related diseases.

"This recognition is a testament to our talented and compassionate caregivers," said Laurie H. Glimcher, MD, President and CEO, Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. "It also helps illustrate why people facing a cancer diagnosis can count on Dana-Farber/Brigham and Women's Cancer Center to provide the very best care possible."

"We are extremely proud of the dedicated professionals at the Dana-Farber/Brigham and Women's Cancer Center who work together as one team with a singular focus on conquering cancer and advancing the way cancer care is delivered," said Betsy Nabel, MD, President of Brigham Health. "More important than any awards or accolades, however, is the hope that we bring to patients who are battling cancer and their loved ones."

In June, U.S. News ranked Dana-Farber/Boston Children's Cancer and Blood Disorders Center the No. 2 pediatric cancer program in the country.

"For nearly three decades, we've strived to make hospital quality more transparent to healthcare consumers nationwide," said Ben Harder, managing editor and chief of health analysis at U.S. News. "By providing the most comprehensive data available, we hope to give patients the information they need to find the best care across a range of specialties."

For the 2017-18 rankings, U.S. News evaluated more than 4,500 medical centers nationwide in 25 specialties, procedures and conditions. In the 16 specialty areas, 146 hospitals were ranked in at least one specialty. In rankings by state and metro area, U.S. News recognized hospitals as high performing across multiple areas of care.

There's another KKW beauty snafu

If Kim Kardashian thought people weirdly accusing her of blackface in her KKW ads was bad, she probably wasn't expecting this latest round of tomfoolery.

The reality star has received flack some beauty blogger named Jeffree Star after showing off her new powder contour kits on Snapchat. Basically she doesn't know how to swatch, which, I don't either! But like, I don't own and aggressively peddle my own makeup line, so.

After Star criticized the swatches for looking "like chalk," her fans sent a lot of hate his way. But mostly because he made racist remarks 12 years ago that he later apologized for.

Kardashian was swift with her response. "I get that it's a serious deal if you say like racial things, but I do believe in people changing, and people that apologize, I will give them the benefit of the doubt," she said.

The lesson here? That if you were racist 12 years ago, but you apologized, you're all right by Kim Kardashian. Neat-o!

Mindy opens up about baby friend

Finally!

Mindy Kaling is finally saying words about the baby inside of her!

"The Mindy Project" actress finally confirms, out of her own lips, that she is indeed pregnant and that she's "really excited" about it. "It's so unknown to me," she says. "I have a lot of control over a lot of aspects of my life, and this is one where I'm like, 'OK, it's out of my hands,' which is kind of a fun feeling."

She's also looking forward to finally being able to criticize other people with babies, which I think is probably the only reason people have kids in the first place, right? "It's so easy to criticize parenting until you're a parent. So one of the nice things about becoming a parent is that I'll be able to openly criticize other parenting because I will have a child." LOL, Mindy still got it.

How Amandla Stenberg learned about Trump's win

Amandla Stenberg — one of those teens I know I should be into, but I always forget — is saying some pretty sensible stuff in a new issue of Teen Vogue.

The 18-year-old sat down with singer Janelle Monae to talk about racism, Trump and black-girl magic, and y'all know I'm here for it.

But most important, she found out Trump got elected from a dude in a Nazi uniform. Can you even?

"I was shooting a scene in 'Where Hands Touch,' a film about a biracial girl growing up during the Holocaust," she says. "An actor playing a Nazi soldier took out his phone to refresh the news and announced that Trump was president. … Immediately, I excused myself because I felt like I couldn't breathe anymore. I started sobbing."

Girl, same. Except the Nazi part. There were no people dressed as Nazis at the Brooklyn bar I was probably at, guzzling my worries away.

Why Oprah never let Stedman put a ring on it

America's matriarch speaks.
ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Oprah Winfrey and her partner, Stedman Graham, have been together for 31 years. That is approximately an infinite loop in celebrity years! But Winfrey admits that they have no plans on ever getting married, because they're perfectly happy, like, not being married.

Also, to be fair, marriage has only come up once between the pair. "Nobody believes it, but it's true. The only time I brought it up was when I said to Stedman, 'What would have happened if we had actually gotten married?' And the answer is: 'We wouldn't be together.'" Damn girl!

"We would not have stayed together, because marriage requires a different way of being in this world. His interpretation of what it means to be a husband and what it would and what it would mean for me to be a wife would have been pretty traditional, and I would not have been able to fit into that," Winfrey said. Goals, as per usual.

Liam Gallagher: 'I don't understand myself'

We chat with the English musician, singer and songwriter.

NATALIA WYSOCKA, MWN in Montreal
letters@metro.us

Liam Gallagher has a fiery reputation. When he introduces himself, he wears his forever dark sunglasses and a long Stone Island coat that he just bought the morning of our interview. He does not like wearing shirts when on stage and prefers "comfortable" clothing. This is, however, perhaps the only visibly comfortable aspect of the founding member of the rock band Oasis. No longer in the band, the singer is known for his mood swings and battles with Noel, his older brother and former bandmate. We caught up with the 44-year-old in Montreal to chat about his relationship with Noel Gallagher, future plans and life.

Last year, Netflix produced the documentary "Supersonic," which traces your life and Noel's, from the beginning of Oasis to 1996. Do you have the impression that this movie has allowed more people to understand you better, both as a person and as an artist?
Hmmm, I'm not sure. ... I don't know. Maybe you'll understand me a bit more. But even me, I don't understand myself. See what I mean? So, I wish you good luck! I know what my goal is. I'm not there to raise spirits, go life! I'm not an enthusiast of life. But it's a good documentary. I like it. I'm glad I did it.

You sell a T-shirt that reads, "Who the f--k is Liam Gallagher," a nod to Keith Richards' famous T-shirt, which reads, "Who the hell is Mick Jagger?" Do you ask yourself this question?
Ah, completely! I know who I am, but ... what comes first, the egg or the chicken, right? What came first? Do I ask myself this question or do I answer it? I think I know who I am. Yes. I think I know. But I'm still learning. You never finish discovering your own stupidities, do you know what I mean?

During the Oasis years, the media put a lot of emphasis on your internal battles and your endless disputes with your brother. Do you think, in the midst of all this, they forgot about your humor? Because, despite everything, you have a great sense of humor! And love? And the fellowship that united you guys?
We had a lot of love, a lot of humor. Yes. Sometimes we had little fights. But I would say that 90 percent of the time I spent with Oasis was momentous. I lived sublime moments — sacred, magnificent. And the remaining 10 percent was awful. I have very good memories.

Do you plan to ever regroup the band?
My plan is to live my life. And one day, with a little hope, my brother and I will be brothers. That is all. What is Oasis? What is it? Oasis is Noel and me. If we do not understand each other, there is no Oasis. If we do understand each other, then possibly Oasis will return. But the important thing is that we will be brothers again.

Do you think this will happen?
Right now, no.

You will release a new album in October called "As You Were." In the beginning, it was going to be called "Bold". What happened?
We did a bit of brainstorming. And we said that "As You Were," had character. Much more character. It's better, I think.

For this album, you worked with new collaborators, including Andrew Wyatt of Miike Snow. Was it disconcerting?
Yes, yes. We went to Los Angeles to write. We wrote "Wall of Glass," "Paper Crown" and "Come Back to Me." Three songs in three days. All excellent. I love them deeply. It was easy to do. I thought it would be an absolute nightmare. Meet with people I did not know, try to compose music with them. But it was as if we had known each other forever.

In a rut? Adding a fresh coat of paint — or opting for a brand-new color — is always a good way to liven up any space and, by extension, clear the cobwebs from your head. But what about experimenting with wallpaper? It's less messy and time-consuming, and you get to add a pattern instead of just a color. From removable swaths you roll on yourself to brighten up a small space, to large murals that transform an entire room, here are three wallpaper companies that offer prints and patterns that to your fancy.

Flavor Paper
This Brooklyn-based company creates both digital and screen-printed wallpapers, with over 150 designs to choose from. You can custom design your own, or select from categories like "floral," "geometric," and "funky." If you're filling a big space, opt for a mural, which starts at 80 square feet minimum. If you're looking for something less permanent, EZ Papes might be more your speed. They come with a water-activated paste so all you have to do is dip the prints in water and roll it on the wall. (They're water strippable for easy removal.) Don't miss the Andy Warhol x Flavor Paper collab. And there's even scratch 'n sniff, people! flavorpaper.com

Nature-themed peel 'n stick wallpapers from Etsy shop Jumanjii
INSTAGRAM.COM/JUMANJIIWALLPAPERS

Jumajii on Etsy
Etsy is a great resource for independently-designed and affordable wallpaper. We like the shop Jumanjii, which boasts bright and colorful "jungle-themed" nature prints like banana leaves, blooming cactus and coconuts. It's all removable and self-adhesive — peel 'n stick — so you can take it down at any time. Sizing starts at 20 by 48 inches ($37), if you want to add a swath of color to a small space. You even have the option of ordering washable wallpaper. etsy.com/shop/jumanjii

Nottene
Philly design studio Nottene specializes in hand-drawn screen-printed papers, which look more like illustrations than prints. From gold-inked constellations to a rendering of different-style homes done in ballpoint pen, the work is subtle and varied. You can request a custom design as well. It's available to order as a sample, (8 by 10 inches, $6), print (18 by 24 inches, $50) or by the roll (27 inches by 15 feet, $175). nottene.net

WINNING THE MIDDLE ROUNDS KEY TO FANTASY FOOTBALL

Anyone can pick a stud fantasy player in the first round, but what about Rounds 4-8? Here's a look at more players to target and avoid in your fantasy football draft.

BILL DUBIEL

Bill Dubiel is a fantasy football expert and lead NFL columnist for Rotoballer.com.

Hold off on trying to draft Carolina rookie Christian McCaffrey. GETTY IMAGES

Britt won't be a bust

It seems like Kenny Britt has been playing in the league forever, but he's still only 28. He's coming off a surprising season in which he set career highs in targets, receptions and yardage. Because he played in the Rams' putrid offense, he was limited to just five touchdowns, but he was still a steady WR3 in most formats.

This year he is the top wideout in Cleveland, and while that offense certainly isn't terrifying defenses either, Britt is still capable of a season like last year, and given his durability he should more than return on his current ADP (WR47, 113 overall).

Kelley still locked in

There was plenty of talk that rookie Samaje Perine would win the starting running back job in Washington coming into training camp, but in the last few weeks Rob Kelley has actually strengthened his grip on the RB1 role. Kelley came into camp "bigger and faster" according to head coach Jay Gruden, and has been making strides improving his pass-catching abilities. Perine, on the other hand, has struggled with fumbling all through camp, and already coughed one up in the Redskins' first preseason game. Kelley has a stranglehold on the RB1 job, and the Washington offense should move the ball plenty in 2017. Kelley is currently the 38th running back off the board, but his ceiling is so much higher if he can fend off Perine for an extended period of time.

The cost is too damn high

Carolina rookie Christian McCaffrey is a dynamic back with a bright future, but the hype train is out of control heading into fantasy drafts. At best, McCaffrey figures to be the low man in a timeshare with veteran Jonathan Stewart in the backfield, while also taking some touches in the passing game. However, his ADP has spiraled out of control, and he's currently going in the third round of most drafts, ahead of much safer options like Travis Kelce, Isaiah Crowell and Jarvis Landry. That's simply too expensive for a rookie in a timeshare. Let someone else burn a third-round pick on him.

Sleepers

Andy Dalton, QB, CIN — Dalton continues to be overlooked in drafts and has developed a strangely bad reputation. He is remarkably consistent, has plenty of weapons around him, and stays relatively healthy. He's a terrific target if you plan on waiting to draft a QB.

Zay Jones, WR, BUF — With Sammy Watkins headed to LA and Jordan Matthews dealing with a chest injury, rookie Zay Jones is currently the most capable and talented receiver for the Bills. He's barely being drafted at all, and should return solid value as a late round flier.

Giovani Bernard, RB, CIN — While most are focused on rookie Joe Mixon challenging Jeremy Hill for early-down touches, Bernard's role as a pass-catching go-to on third downs should be totally safe. He will be a legit every-week PPR flex play and he'll cost you nothing.

Gillette will be filled with Goodell 'clown towels'

If NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell thinks New England is over Deflategate and last year's four-game suspension of Tom Brady, the commish best think again.

Barstool Sports is set to purchase 70,000 towels with a picture of Goodell with a clown nose to hand out to Patriots fans at the season opening game at Gillette Stadium on Sept. 7 against Kansas City. Barstool Sports founder David Portnoy initially planned on having 30,000 towels made but changed his mind when it was revealed that Goodell attended last week's preseason game at Gillette Stadium. Goodell had not attended a Patriots game in Foxboro since the alleged "Deflategate game" in January of 2015 before last Thursday. He will be on hand in Foxboro at the nationally televised game on Sept. 7.

Patriots fans aren't even close to being ready to forgive Roger Goodell. GETTY IMAGES

"Originally I said I was going to buy 30,000 towels for opening night at Gillette," Portnoy wrote Tuesday. "The reaction was so overwhelming and so positive I started thinking maybe that wasn't enough. Maybe I needed to buy enough to fill the entire stadium. Then Goodell tried to downplay his appearance by sneaking into a preseason game and taking pictures with idiot Patriots 'fans' acting all happy to see him. NOT ON MY WATCH ROGER! NOT ON MY WATCH!"

The image of Goodell with a clown nose has become quite popular with Patriots fans over the past year, so much so that Pats defensive coordinator Matt Patricia wore a Barstool T-shirt with the image as he left the Patriots team plane after their Super Bowl LI win over Atlanta.

ProFootballTalk's Mike Florio reported this summer that Goodell did not take too kindly to Patricia wearing the shirt, and that he was still "miffed" about the incident.

metro.us/horoscopes

Aries Taking on too much or doubting someone who is supposed to share the brunt of the work will cause anxiety. Channel your energy into activities that will help you.

Taurus Participate in events that promote networking. The more time you get to spend with people who have something to offer, the better.

Gemini Don't be disillusioned by what others do or say. Make your life better by putting more muscle behind the changes you want to make at work or to your personal space.

Cancer Keep private matters a secret. Someone will take advantage of information you share and make you look bad if you aren't careful. Personal improvement is encouraged.

Leo Don't exaggerate or brag. Someone will double-check your story and make you look bad. Stay focused and do what you say. Being prompt and precise will help you excel.

Virgo Look at the big picture and use charm and diplomacy instead of making assumptions and overreacting. It's in your best interest to get along and to get things done.

Libra You can spin things in your favor if you show dedication and the ability to reach your goal without outside influence or help. Own what you do to gain respect.

Scorpio Emotional problems will surface at home or work if someone isn't being honest. Get your facts straight before you point a finger at anyone. Avoid taking on too much.

Sagittarius Emotional situations will depend on how you handle matters. If you channel your energy into physical activities, you will lessen the odds of getting into an argument.

Capricorn A meeting, interview or business trip will have hidden costs. If you are negotiating or signing a contract, read the fine print first. An unusual attraction will surprise you.

Aquarius Fixing up your home or purging some of the possessions you no longer use or need will help you unclutter your space, giving you room to explore new possibilities.

Pisces Limitations will set in if you let your emotions take charge, resulting in misleading discussions. Reassess your relationships with those close to you. EUGENIA LAST
